She remarked the information received was reduced to four main topics that will be discussed during the next two meetings.

She remarked that she has yet to receive a response to her concerns. She also expressed concern regarding an email she wrote to Councilmember Corman that was forwarded to the City Attorney. Ms. Clark stated that when she received a copy of the email some of the text was blotted out. She questioned whether the comments were blotted out because they may be racist or biased.

Responding to Councilmember Palmer’s inquiry, Domestic Violence Victim Advocate Tina Harris stated that the Renton School District, in conjunction with members of the Scholl family, is able to meet with health educators interested in providing domestic violence awareness prevention and education to high school students. She explained that the health educators partner with the Domestic Abuse Women’s Network (DAWN) to provide presentations to the students. Ms. Harris also stated that football coaches have a curriculum called “Coaching Boys into Men,” that empowers young men to identify and report abusive relationships.
Ms. Harris also took a moment to speak about slain teen Kathy Chou. She stated that the Chou family could not attend tonight’s meeting, but are very grateful to the police department and others who assisted their family. She remarked that teaching domestic violence prevention and awareness in schools is not a 100% guarantee that incidents will not occur, but is a step in the right direction.

At the request of Councilmember Taylor, Ms. Harris reported that during the month of October Renton is participating in what is called a silent witness display. She explained that the display is a group of life-size silhouettes depicting women, children, and men killed by domestic violence, and the police officers killed in the line of duty responding to domestic violence calls. She stated that Renton has seven silhouettes in the lobby of City Hall, all depicting actual community members, including her co-worker Bretta Hawkins and Bretta’s mother Barbara, who were murdered due to domestic violence. She encouraged all residents to come to City Hall to see the display.
